Celebrating over 20 years of growing confetti...

The Real Flower Petal Confetti Company are the UK's original wedding petal growers and we have led the way in beautiful, natural, biodegradable confetti since 1997.

Our story begins on a late spring afternoon many years ago... Charles Hudson was looking for ways to diversify the farming on his family estate when he stumbled upon the idea of flower petal confetti. Charles happened to pause outside the village churchyard on his way home, and strewn around the lych-gate were tiny wet pieces of coloured paper, debris from an earlier wedding, that had turned the church entrance into an eyesore.

Charles appreciated why so many churches ban the use of confetti within church grounds, but it seemed a shame that the wedding celebrations could not have started as the happy couple stepped out of the church. When he arrived home some petals fell from the flower bouquet Charles was carrying for his wife and he experienced a 'eureka' moment - The Real Flower Petal Confetti Company was born!

Charles experimented with many flowers and carefully developed his own delicate process of drying petals - using just sunshine and fresh air. Delphiniums were finally chosen for their ability to retain their shape and beautiful colour when dried. A huge field of flowers blooms on the farm each summer and the petals are all picked by hand. It's an intensive process, but it results in superior petals. Customers order online or over the telephone and can choose their own bespoke mixes of confetti to suit their wedding theme. The Wyke Manor Estate is nestled in the shadow of Bredon Hill, in the picturesque Worcestershire countryside, and from the small office in Wick village orders are sent out to weddings all over the world.

The confetti moment is a quintessential wedding day experience and the traditional simplicity and beauty of the idea of throwing flower petals, together with the fact that they biodegrade as naturally as blossom, meant that our confetti was instantly loved by Brides & Grooms, churches and venues. Demand grew so rose petals, wildflowers, hydrangeas, and lavender were sourced and added to the range to give couples more choice, and handmade confetti cones, bridesmaid baskets, petal bags, beautiful paper envelopes and handmade horseshoes are also available to add those finishing touches.

The Confetti Flower Field

Since 2015 we have opened our enormous field of delphiniums and cornflowers to the public for a few days each summer. It is a spectacularly colourful sight to see, a unique corner of the English countryside. Visitors can walk round the flowers, soak up the colours and wonderful rural views, take photos, and enjoy tea and cake in our pop-up café. Bunches of fresh flowers and confetti products are for sale too. The flower field attracts visitors from all over the world and we are thrilled to be able to share the beautiful experience with the public. Seeing the joy on people's faces, as they turn the corner into the field, is just wonderful!

Please visit our dedicated Flower Field page for information on our next open days. Or if you wish to film or run a photoshoot in the Flower Field, please make an enquiry with Nancy Priscott.

Facts & Information

Traditionally confetti (grains of rice) were thrown over newlyweds to bestow fertility on the marriage.

Confetti is an Italian word for sweets – which are thrown on special occasions to bring good luck.

Nowadays throwing confetti simply marks the end of the formal ceremony and the start of the wedding celebrations. The tradition continues because it's great fun!

Flower petals are ideal because they naturally biodegrade. Delphiniums have a meaning of swiftness and lightness and symbolize strong bonds of love – perfect for wedding confetti! Roses are the most romantic of flowers and simply embody love, passion and romance – which makes them a very popular choice for wedding petals!

Our petals are sold in 10 handful bags, or in individual packaging – so it's easy to work out how much throwing confetti you'll need.

At the average wedding 50 - 100 handfuls of confetti will be thrown.

Our most popular confetti mixes are-

1. Rainbow Delphiniums
2. Blushing Pink, Baby Pink and Cream Small Natural Rose Petals
3. Pink Mix Delphinium Petals

Scattering petals down the aisle in front of the bride is another popular use for confetti petals. It is said to represent a happy path into married life. A more modern alternative would be for a little girl or boy to sprinkle petals in front of the happy couple after the ceremony is complete.

Real Flower Petal Confetti has now been used at thousands of weddings worldwide, including those of celebrities and Royalty. Our flower petals and The Confetti Flower Field, and they have also been used to bring a touch of romance to TV and feature films.

Notable clients include: Prince Charles and The Duchess of Cornwall (married 11th April 2005)

Madonna and Guy Ritchie (married 22nd December 2000)

Our Flower Field is planted on our farm in a different place every year – the plants are annuals and are rotated with all our other arable crops.

Each summer we harvest millions of petals all by hand.

Our confetti petals are naturally dried using a top-secret process using just sunshine and fresh air!

The largest flower field we ever grew was over 25 acres and our Union Jack field design in 2004 made it into The Guinness Book of Records as the world’s largest decorative carpet of flowers.
